

A Learning Experience

We have learned a lot in the last six months. The Mongoose deal remains the most exciting thing in SFU history, but discovering just how it was going to work (and how much time it was going to take to approve things done by an outside company) was something of a shock. The massive time that went into ACTASF/2500 meant that other things did not get done, but we've learned what that requires and have already scheduled better for 2012.

Mike Sparks and Joel Shutts continue to surprise us with their abilities to do more than we ever thought they could. They've been a great help in making progress.

Learning that GAMA wrecked Origins 2012 was a painful truth, but we will all deal with it.

At least, we have learned how to do a really good Captain's Log in a very efficient manner.
