Gorn officer insignia comes in a bewildering array of emblems.

All take the classic oval "egg" shape. Admirals have this trimmed in gold, officers in copper, and enlisted personnel in red. Each insignia has three elements: background color, branch emblem, and rank pips. The background color is blue for space, green for ground troops, and purple for scientific, medical, and other special officers such as lawyers. Scientists and doctors have a round disk; others use the "engineer-technical" octagon.

The branch emblem is always yellow, and is a diamond for starship crews (a smaller diamond for gunboats), and eight-pointed octagon for engineers and technicians (including those of ground troops), a narrow triangle for pilots, and an equilateral triangle for ground troops. Ground-based fighter pilots have a green background and the pilot triangle.

Rank pips are bars for enlisted, horizontal ovals for non-commissioned officers, dots for junior commissioned officers, vertical ovals for senior commissioned officers, and huge black disks for flag officers (who have no branch insignia but will have a background color). Gorns have four ranks in each type (junior officers, senior officers) instead of three as the Federation and Klingons have.

Gorns use the same term for ground and space officers, but the Federation translates this into the appropriate Army and Navy ranks.
